Who should attend?

This study day is an essential event for:

- All professionals working in health and social care who are facing the challenge of delivering quality health and social care within the current economic climate.

Come along to explore the challenges of achieving ways of working smarter in integrated health and social care education and practice.

Five key reasons to attend this study day:

- Share experiences of effective integrated working
- Learn about practical solutions to ways of working smarter
- Explore ways of working better to meet the challenges of integrated working
- Develop your skills in a professional environment
- Support and inform your institution's approach to integrated working

Keynote speakers

We are delighted to welcome leading internationally recognised speakers:

Professor Rhiannon Billingsley, Pro Vice Chancellor, Faculty of Health and Wellbeing, Sheffield Hallam University

Sue Bernhauser, Dean of the School of Human and Health Sciences, University of Huddersfield

Professor Mike Thomas, Dean, School of Health and Social Care, University of Chester

The study day will focus on:

- Practical workshops
- A variety of posters showcasing a variety of initiatives from health and social care professionals across the country.

Exhibition

The exhibition will include a range of resources, books and other materials of interest to healthcare educators.

Conference pack

Each delegate will receive a pack containing keynote papers, workshop and poster summaries.

Venue

The University of Chester is one of the oldest providers of higher education in the country, with academic roots stretching back to the early 19th century. It was founded in 1839 by a group of prominent local figures, which included Britain's greatest 19th century Prime Minister, William Gladstone. The Chester campus is situated only a short walk from the city centre.

Wednesday 31 March 2010 University of Chester, CH1 4BJ, United Kingdom
